Richmond Grows Seed Lending Library

Not from the Greater Richmond California Area?
It's easy to create your own seed lending library or locate a sister seed library.

What's a Seed Lending Library?
Come to the Richmond Public Library, 325 Civic Center Plaza, Richmond, Calif. and “borrow” seeds for free!
You may be asking, “How can you ‘borrow’ seeds?”
The basic idea is that you plant the seeds, let some go to seed, then return some of these next generation seeds for others to borrow. (Don’t worry. We don’t have fines if you don’t return seeds.)

We encourage home gardeners to save seeds from the “super easy” plants: tomatoes, lettuce, beans, peas,

Envelopes - Grow Out Program
Return quality seed that is well labeled. Use our envelope labels (make a copy) or see if the variety you are growing already has a label pre-made on our Grow Out Program list.
NOTE: Some plants readily cross pollinate, such as sunflowers, corn and brassicas. If you are saving seeds from these plants and did not cage or hand-pollinate them, write "Crossed?" on the packet.

Beth Kensinger: I finally get around to that one last year and just loved it. My first taste of Willis was in short story, and I read The Doomsday Book last year. Phenomenal author. Definitely much more humor in TSNoFD. Her Laubar, I love that literary connection between To Say Nothing of the Dog and Three Men in a Boat. 😊 [Miranda]

I have only read one by Anne Tyler, Vinegar Girl. It was very well written, and so many friends have recommended that I check out more of her work. [Miranda]
